INTERESTING TO MANY BOYS

There is No Present That Will Be So Dear to Heart of Youth as Pen of Bantam Chickens.

Whenever you see a pen of bantams you always hear a number of people voicing their wonder as to the utility of these small birds. Strictly speaking they are of no real use. The birds are altogether too small to be raised for the table, though they are far more tender than their larger relatives. The bantams are smaller than ever the eggs of a Leghorn pullet and it takes about three of them to equal two ordinary eggs. Nevertheless the bantams occupy a place in the chicken world that is far more important than most people think.

They are bred for two reasons, for breeding purposes and for pets. In the former they are bred to sell for pets and so it all amounts to the same thing. As pets for children or for people who have no desire to raise chickens for practical purposes, the bantams have no superior. There is no present that will be so dear to the heart of a boy or as useful to him as a pen of bantams. Without anything to interest him at home outside of the inanimate objects of the play room, there are few boys, especially in the cities, who are not roaming around on the streets. In a pen of bantams a boy has an interest which keeps him home and keeps him busy.

ELECTRIC TOYS THAT AMAZ

Few Examples of Playthings That Will Open Eyes of Boys—Girls Also Remembered.

Some of the electrical toys now on the market are actual wonders—working models in reality of the big electrical equipments seen all about us, says the Popular Electricity. Here are a few examples which will prove to be eye-openers to a great many boys who are not in a position to visit the large electrical supply stores where such things are on exhibition:

For instance, there is a little steamship (1) complete in all its outward details, which is driven by a battery and motor concealed in its hull. It may be started, stopped or reversed from a small switchboard through a waterproof connecting cable.

Then there is a small fan (2) which is not a mere toy, but which will give

THE CROW AND THE PITCHER.

The crow has been flying and flying all day long.

He is looking for water to drink.

"If I could only get some water," he says.

He flies first one way, then another way. But he cannot find any.

O, there is a pitcher!

There is water in it! But it is far down in the pitcher!

He puts his head in as far as he can.

But he cannot get a drink.

"If I tilt the pitcher over," he says.

See him try.

But he cannot tilt it over.

"I must have a drink," he says. "How can I get it?"

There are some small white stones!

Look! He picked up one. He drops it into the pitcher.

With that he picks up one after another.

He drops them all into the pitcher.

The water rises higher and higher.

Now the crow can get a drink.

"Caw, caw, caw," says the wise old crow. "Where there's a will, there's a way."

CLEVER TRICK WITH FIGURES

Enjoyable Delusion May Be Sprung by Boys and Girls on Their Friends—Result Always Six.

Boys and girls who are fond of springing tricks upon their friends will enjoy the following one:

Ask some one to choose any number on the clock and add it to the number directly opposite. This is to be done to himself, not out loud. Then tell him to imagine that these two numbers are joined by a line and that another line is drawn at right angles to the first line, so that a cross is formed.

Tell the person to add together the two numbers at the ends of this and line; then to find the difference between the sum and the sum of the first two numbers. Then announce that you can tell the result. No matter what figure on the clock face has been first chosen, if the addition is correct, the result will be six. Try it.

BUTTERFLY IS TRANSPARENT

Prof. Beebe Describes Insect Through Whose Outstretched Wings Objects Are Clearly Seen.

In "Our Search for a Wilderness," William Beebe of the New York Zoological park, describes his first sight of the transparent butterfly—Hoetaria plera—of British Guiana, an insect through whose outstretched wings any substance on which it rests can be clearly seen.

"As we crossed a swirling creek on the trunk of a mighty fallen tree, something fluttered ahead," he writes.

"We could not see what it was. Closer we came, and still the object remained indistinct; we seemed to see a butterfly, and yet that appeared impossible. At last we marked it down on a fern frond, and crept up until our eyes were within two feet of it. Nothing was visible but the graceful lace-work of the frond, until a slanting beam of sunlight struck it, and there, close before us, was a butterfly that was wholly transparent, save for three tiny spots of azure near the margin of each hind wing.

"As we looked at it, it drifted to a double-headed flower of scarlet, and when it alighted, the scarlet of the flower and the green of the leaf were as distinct as if seen through thin muslin, and the faint gray haze of the wings was marked only by its transparent.

READ HUCK FINN UNDER BED

Alabama Man Relates Difficulties He Underwent to Absorb Mark Twain's Well Known Book.

Crawford T. Ruff of this city had an experience while reading Mark Twain's famous "Huckleberry Finn" which probably was never duplicated by another admirer of Clements.

"It must have been more than thirty years ago," said Mr. Ruff, in relating the story to a party of friends, according to the Montgomery Advertiser, "when I was a small shaver. Only a limited number of copies of the book appeared with the first edition. Only one book came to the little town where I lived, but it sufficed for the entire populace. The book went the rounds, from neighbor to neighbor, and finally landed in our home. I was so absorbed in the first chapter that I wanted to finish it all before any one else in the family started on it."

"There was an old time bedstead in our home. The headboard was two or three feet from the window. The covering dropped to the floor on either side, so as to conceal me from view, except from the rear. I would crawl under the bed with Huck Finn, face downward, and with my head near the end of the bed so the light from the window enabled me to read. In this way I finished the book before any one else in the house got to it."

That done he attacked the wood. He worked hard, alternating his labor with dips in his bathing pond. He hopped and hopped alternately until four o'clock in the afternoon, when he ate his supper of bread and carrots and paddled about in his pond until 5:30 o'clock.

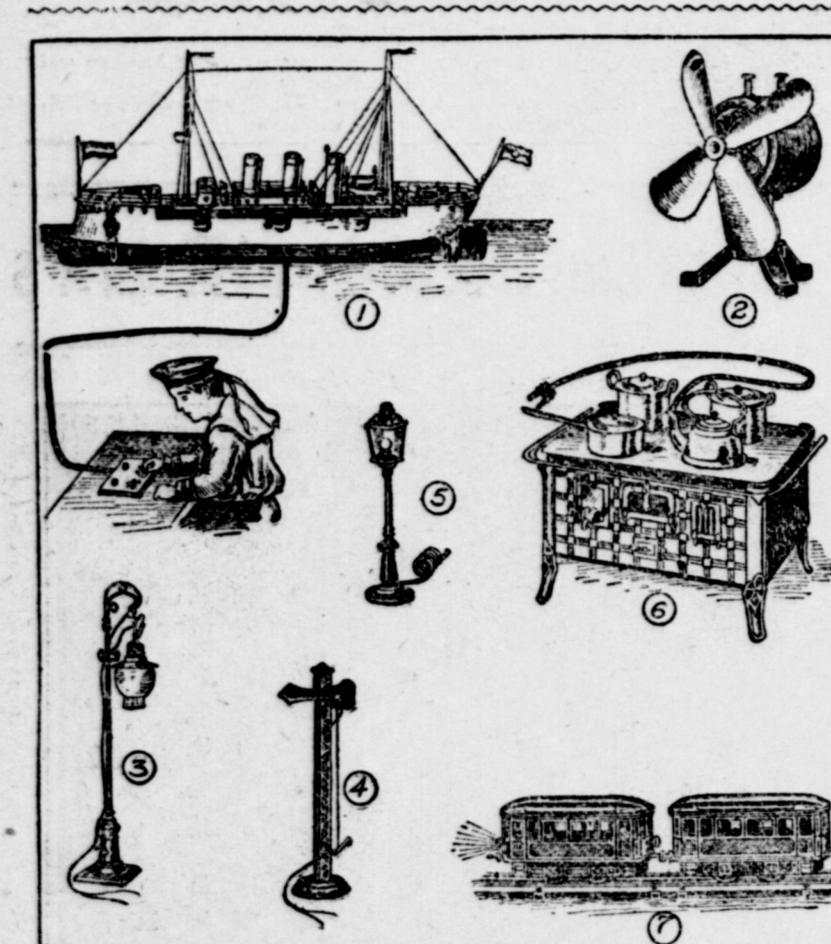

Ten minutes later, when only one inch of the tree's diameter remained intact, he bore upon his work and the tree fell. Before it fell the beaver ran as men run when they have fired a blast. Then as the tree lay on the ground, he portioned it out mentally, and again began to gnaw.

He worked at intervals all night, cut the log into three parts, rolled two of the portions into the water and served the other third for his permanent shelter.

How She Caught It. A little four-year-old went to Sunday school for the first time and heard the children singing: "Once I was blind but now I can see." That afternoon her sister heard her sing: "Once I was blind, but now it can see."

Street lamps with real lights (3) and (5) operate from a battery.

Complete electrically operated street cars (7), with electric headlight and any desired amount of track are obtainable, and if desired, this track may be protected by electric block signals (4).

The girls have also been remembered, and one of the things which interests them most is a complete electric range with cooking utensils which operates from the lighting circuit, and which is capable of doing real cooking.

"What did you get that hat?" "Who shot the dog?" and "How are you off for soap?" survive only in the pages of contemporary novelists. Some, however, have a long life. "Does your mother know you're out?" has been traced back to 1840 and may possibly have been current before then. Others are revived, with slight alterations. Ten years ago rude little boys would shout, "Where did you get that hat?" when their grandfathers would exclaim, "What! the same old hat?" And the expression of same was emphasized nowadays by "Not in these trousers!" used to be conveyed thirty years ago by the tag, "Not in these boots!"

Patient Fishermen.

"What, giving up already, my boy?" said a gentleman to a youthful angler. "You must bring a little more patience with you another time." I brought enough patience with me, mister, but I didn't bring enough worms."

NEWS for the YOUNG PEOPLE

TESTING THE OPERA GLASSES

Ingenious Manner of Settling Disputes Among Boys as to the Magnifying Power.

At this time of year, when people go to the theater a good deal, boys often have disputes as to the magnifying power of the grownups' opera glasses. Here is the way they are tested.

Pick out some object with a number of equally distant lines on it, like a brick wall, the slats on a blind, the rungs of a ladder or the clapboards of a frame house.

on a frame house. the glass so that you look through one-half of the glass, as shown in the illustration.

Now close the left eye and get the opera glass focused on your lines. Holding your gaze steadily on these lines open your left eye and move the glass until you see the same lines with both eyes at once. With a little practice you will get along to overlap as if you were not looking through the glass at all.

Count how many spaces you see with your left eye in the single space that you see with the eye that looks through the glass and that will be the magnifying power. In the illustration it is four times. Telescopes can be tested in the same way, if held very steadily.

ILLUSTRATING the bitterness of Col. Roosevelt toward his rivals is the publication in the steamed (that's the word) Outlook of the horrible secret that Woodrow Wilson was christened Thomas Woodrow Wilson. Why drag these skeletons from the closet and make this a campaign of personalities?

COL. ROOSEVELT's platform will be a queer sort of "contract with the people." The party of the third party will be the party of the first part, but the people, party of the second part, will have to be represented by proxy. And the party of the first and third parts will be the proxy, appointed by himself.

THAT Alabama young woman who values her broken heart at $10 takes a rational and business view of it. If one could get $10 every time one's heart is broken one would soon have money in the bank, and there is more likelihood of getting $10 than there is $10,000. Most any man would pay $10 for the repair of a woman's heart.

A RECENT paper on electric locomotives for the handling of freight in railroad yards and in mining brought out clearly certain advantages over steam locomotives apart from the elimination of fire and smoke and the difference in fuel efficiency of the central station boiler and engine and the (smaller) locomotive boiler and engine. The electric locomotive can be relied upon, as long as the line voltage is maintained, to develop its full power at any time, being independent of the state of a boiler, the skill of a fireman, or the quality of fuel. The track adhesion is better—some times as much as 20 per cent better—because the torque of the driving wheels is uniform throughout each revolution, there is not the same tendency to slip when under load as is the steam locomotive. The traction can be increased indefinitely by sanding the rails, since the electric locomotive can draw power indefinitely from the line. No time is lost on the road for coaling, watering, boiler tending, or waiting for steam pressure to rise.

Farmers are now having some spare time, and are doing outside hauling. There will be a large crowd here Monday to court.

Weak Ankles.

Many a young mother, alarmed by the weakness of her child's ankles, takes him to the doctor, in the belief that the little one is doomed to lifelong deformity. In this she does well, for the condition although it usually corrects itself, may grow worse, and actually lead to clubfoot.

The doctor should keep the child under observation, so that if at any time the case becomes threatening, he may begin treatment promptly.

Weak ankles are common enough in young children who have been walking only a short time. Many mothers, especially those who have had several children, some of whom perhaps have outgrown weak ankles, either neglect to have the child attended to until the weakness has become irremediable, or attempt to treat the case themselves—usually with results even more harmful than those due to neglect. They are likely to put on the child's foot a reinforce shoe with stiff ankle supports. That is almost the worst thing they could do, for a part grows strong by exercise, and rapidly degenerates when not used at all. So the weakened muscles and ligaments, relieved of all work, grow still weaker, until they are beyond cure.

The muscular and ligamentous weakness, of which weak ankles are a sign, is usually general throughout the body. Since the ankles have to support the whole weight of the body, the weakness shows itself in them first of all. On the other hand, a well-developed, muscular child will always have strong ankles.

The first thing to do is to improve the child's general health by keeping him in the open air and giving him nutritious food, and perhaps tonic medicines. By way of local treatment, the child should wear a well-fitting not too stiff, laced shoe, with a slightly wedge-shaped sole and heel. The inner side of the sole and heel should, moreover, be a little thicker than the outer side, in order to throw the weight on the outer side of the foot, and thus correct the tendency to flatfoot that generally goes with weak ankles.

In addition, the muscles of the legs and the ligaments of the ankles should be strengthened by cold bathing, rubbing, and regular exercises in moving the foot.

A Fly Catechism.

The following questions and answers were prepared by the Indiana state board of health and have been widely copied. The school board of Ashville, N. C., caused them to be pasted in the spelling books used in the graded schools of the city:

Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.

Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.

Is anything too filthy for a fly to eat? No.

Where does he go when he leaves the surface closet and the manure pile and the spittoon? Into the kitchen and dining room.

What does he do there? He walks on the bread, fruit and vegetables. He wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the milk.

Does the fly visit the patient sick with typhoid fever, consumption and cholera infantum? He does, and he may call on you next.

Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest and more dangerous than wild beasts or rattlesnakes.

What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.

Did he ever kill any one? He killed more American soldiers during the Spanish American war than did the bullets of the Spaniards.

Where are the greatest number of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint cases? Where there are the most flies.

Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.

Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.

When shall we kill the fly? Kill him before he gets wings. Kill him when he is a maggot in the manure pile. Kill him while he is in the egg state.

How? Keep the stables dry and clean and don't allow any manure to stay on the premises longer than one week.

If your neighbor fails to comply with these rules and allows flies to breed on his premises to visit you, screen your doors and windows and keep them out.

Politics is adding to the heated term.

Motor Truck for Water Co.

Mr. J. A. Gilman, manager of light and water plant, is figuring on buying an electric truck to be put in service for the hauling of coal to the plant. This is quite an item of expense, and the makers of trucks have about convinced Mr. Gilman that the amount can be reduced and that more satisfactory service can be obtained. It is planned that a three-and-a-half ton truck will be about the most practical size, and it is estimated that this would do the work of at least three teams. The expense of charging the batteries would amount to practically nothing, as the plant has extra power all the while, and the operating expenses of an electric would be extremely light. This would be the first motor vehicle in town, and would be a long step forward in our general march of progress, and the entering wedge for many more such that would undoubtedly follow, of both the electric and gasoline types.

Democrats, it is thought, will turn out generally on Saturday, Aug. 3, for the primary. Both candidates for Congress have many friends over the district, and will draw from all quarters.

Madeline Chapter Eastern Star, entertained Mrs. Clara Hendricks, W. G. M., of Newport, at the Masonic Hall Tuesday evening. Mrs. Hendricks is on her regular annual visitation, and reports a most gratifying condition of work in all lodges she has seen. After the exercises light refreshments were served, and a very pleasant evening was passed.

The new primary law makes campaigning closer and more personal, and all over this district workers are busy for their favorite candidate.

Business in all lines has been extremely quiet for some days, and merchants have been improving the time going over stocks, making alterations, and the like.

Dog days are on the way.

Mr. Paul Morgan returned to Little Rock last Sunday night, after a visit of a fortnight here with his father and friends.

Mr. Owen Rice was here a few hours Monday, attending to some business matters and visiting relatives. He is in Owensboro with his wife and children for a stay of a few weeks, and will return to his home in Denver.

According to the reports made by the Insurance Press, of New York, there was paid in Greenville during 1911 the sum of $24,000 in life insurance premiums. Central City is next in the county, with $15,250.

Kill the Fly. Why? Because—

Flies breed in manure and other filth.

Flies walk and feed on excreta and spuma from people ill with typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diarrhoeal affections and many other diseases.

One fly can carry and may deposit it on our food 6,000,000 bacteria.

One fly in one summer may produce normally 195,312,500,000,000 descendants.

A fly is an enemy to health—the health of our children, the health of our community!

A fly cannot develop from the egg in less than eight days; therefore, if we clean up everything thoroughly every week, and keep all manure screened, there need be no flies.

Will you help in the campaign against the pest?

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pill lets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Howard Mathis' Whereabouts Still Unknown.

Howard Mathis, who three weeks ago left the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Mathis, has not been heard from, though a few reports of his having been seen at various places have been investigated, but without success. A few days after the boy left a note was found, in his handwriting, saying that he was going away. It is not thought that any harm has come to the boy, but that he is all right, and has doubtless secured employment, as he was bright and capable. However, his parents are naturally deeply concerned about him, and with the hope of getting in communication with him have had the following ad. inserted in Louisville and other papers:

WANTED—HOWARD MATHIS.

Our dear boy, come home or write us at once; we are grieved and anxious about you. If you see this, we hope you will come. Your PAPA AND MAMMA Greenville Ky., July 18, 1912

The many friends of the family are lending every aid in the effort to locate the boy, and it is hoped that soon he will be reached and induced to return.

Mr. B. A. Evans, of the National Casket Co., Louisville, was here Monday calling on the trade.

Colley-McCracken Wedding.

Miss Bettie Colley and Mr. A. E. McCracken were married at the Gaines Hotel, Eddyville, on the afternoon of June 26, the Rev. J. N. Hensley performing the ceremony in the presence of a few spectators. They were unaccompanied, and only a few of their friends have been informed of the happy affair. The bride has remained at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Colley, near Depoy. After August first the bride and groom will be at home in the east end. Miss Bettie Colley has been a prominent figure in the educational circles of the county, and the groom is one of our well known young business men. Both have many friends, and this announcement of their new relation will cause the extension of congratulations and best wishes.

Boys at Camp "Wekenboca".

A summer camp for boys, conducted by the State Executive Committee, Y. M. C. A., opened for the western district on Green river, near Calhoun, Tuesday, and will continue until August 3. There will be several scores of boys in camp, and a great time is anticipated by all. Mr. Geo. T. Anderson, local secretary, and the following boys from here are in the camp, leaving Tuesday morning: Jno. Wm. Drake, Willard Kirkpatrick, J. K. Long, Talmage Rogers and Duncan Stevens.

Teachers' Institute Next Week.

The Muhlenberg County Teachers' Institute will be held here next week, beginning Monday and holding until Friday. Dr. Fred Mutchler, of Bowling Green, will be the instructor, and the sessions will be held in the circuit court room. The program as arranged promises a week of interest to everyone who attends, and those who have heard Dr. Mutchler recognize that we are fortunate to have him as the conductor, as he is one of the forces in the state.

Mr. B. A. Evans, of the National Casket Co., Louisville, was here Monday calling on the trade.

Women To Vote and Hold Office.

Under the law of Kentucky, which became effective July 15, women over 21 years old can vote in school elections and are eligible to the office of school trustee. At the annual election, to be held August 3, it is thought there will be a heavy vote polled by the women, and it is likely that many will be elected throughout the state on the board of control, and for the good of the schools, as has been shown always where women are chosen as teachers or officers.

Hon. R. Y. Thomas Speaking Appointments.

Hon. R. Y. Thomas, candidate for re-nomination on the democratic ticket for Congress, will address the voters of his home county at the following places and dates:

A Great Presidential Campaign Offer.

The most liberal we have ever made. The Record until January 1, 1913, and The Daily Evening Post until November 10, 1912 (count the time) for just 75 cents.

This is less than one-half the regular price. The sooner you send in your order the more you will get for your money. Be sure to send in your order under this special rate today to THE RECORD, Greenville, Ky.

According to the report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, recently made public, there were almost twice as many births as deaths in the state last year, the total deaths being 30,583 and the births numbering 60,752. Of the deaths 5,230 were of children under one year, almost as many as occurred in adults 65 years and over, there being 6,880 in this class dying. Tuberculosis is still the white man's burden, this dread disease causing the death of 5,181 persons. The law has proven very beneficial in its first year's trial, and will grow in value and the appreciation of people.

Hon. John S. Rhea Speaks Here.

Hon. John S. Rhea, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, who is spending a part of the week campaigning in this county, addressed a large audience at the court house Tuesday night. He was introduced by Mr. H. O. Meredith, and was enthusiastically greeted. His speech was forceful and effective, and was frequently broken by hearty applause. John Rhea has a wide circle of friends and admirers in this county, where for a quarter of a century he has appeared frequently as a lawyer, candidate, attorney, speaker, and he will receive the support of a large number of people.

The Democratic primary will be held Saturday, August 3. It is likely that a heavy vote will be polled in this district, as the race for the Congressional nomination is attracting much attention.

Mr. Chas. Mann was here from Russellville a few days this week, and was shaking hands with old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Baily have a fine boy, born to them last Thursday.

No matter what you want in sewing machine supplies you can get it from Roark.

There is a rumor that parties here are negotiating with Miller Weir for the old Weir corner. It is the plan if the property can be secured, to erect a modern building, a number of business rooms and hotel. It would be an ideal site, and would be quite an addition to the appearance of court square, while as an investment there is no doubt of its success.
